A fingerprint in its narrow sense is an impression left by the friction ridges of a human finger. The recovery of fingerprints from a crime scene is an important method of forensic science. Fingerprints are easily deposited on suitable surfaces (such as glass or metal or polished stone) by the natural secretions of sweat from the eccrine glands that are present in epidermal ridges. Academia.edu is a platform for academics to share research papers. These old "alphabet pages" are being retained due to the many external links that refer to them. But please note that they are NOT BEING UPDATED and will remain, as is, forever. Please go to the main site page to find current information.
